TURKEY TAXIDERMY INSTRUCTOR

World Champion Cally Morris

Cally Morris grew up with a love for hunting and fishing. He was introduced to taxidermy by a family friend. Money was tight, wood excelsior and coat hangers were cheap, so he mounted a lot of birds. Through high school, taxidermy provided him spending money, and his career path was decided. In 1989, Hazel Creek Taxidermy transitioned from a part time job to a full time job.

Taxidermy shows were a big part of his growth as a taxidermist. The knowledge he gained from competing and attending seminars and classes from his mentors improved his skills. In the early days he competed with everything and soon realized that turkey taxidermy was his passion.

He continued to study reference, honing his talent, and competing at all levels. In 1997 he realized his dream of winning a gold medallion. His pair of turkeys won the Best in World Bird Title in 1997. That was the last World Show that all birds competed for the same gold medallion.

For over twenty years, Cally has shared his turkey taxidermy knowledge through in-depth articles and all day seminars. Many of the techniques he has taught are part of the everyday processes used throughout the industry today. He is excited to realize his goal of being able to teach a class in a state-of-the-art training facility. Each student will have their own individual mini shop including all of the tools needed to work along side Cally for five days. You will start the class with your raw turkey and leave the class with a finished turkey mounted by you. Cally's instruction will break down the intimidating turkey mounting process into his easy to follow, step-by-step procedures. Learn how to use his new turkey form line to increase your quality, anatomy, and speed to Save Time and Make Money. Class placement is based on skill level so you can feel confident knowing the course will be paced at your speed.
